templates

The screenshot displays the Microsoft Flow (Power Automate) interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the 'Flow' logo, a 'Preview' button, and links for 'My flows', 'Browse', and 'Learn'. A search bar on the right says 'Search templates...'. Below the navigation bar, there are filters for 'Showing All flows' and 'sorted by Popularity'. The main area contains a grid of 16 templates, each with a set of icons representing the services involved and a description of the flow.

Build email Subject and Body

The screenshot displays the Microsoft Power Automate visual designer interface. The top step, 'When a file is created', is configured with the 'Include a Folder' option set to 'PowerApps'. A 'Dropbox / Dropbox' dialog box is open, showing the 'PowerApps' folder selected. The second step, 'Send Email', is configured with the 'Subject' field containing 'New file: [File name] has been added to your Dropbox' and the 'Body' field containing 'New information available'. Below the body field, a section titled 'You can insert data from previous steps...' shows 'Outputs from When a file is created' with fields for 'File content', 'File identifier', 'File name', 'File path', 'File entity tag', and 'File content type'. The 'To' field in the 'Send Email' step is currently empty. The interface indicates connections to 'johnsharp@hotmail.com' for the first step and 'johnsharp@contoso.com' for the second step.
